The 1783 map on the cover illustrates the accepted boundaries established after the American Revolution. Possession of New Orleans by Spain was still under dispute. The map was drawn by Robert M. Chapin, Jr., a mapmaker for Time. It was published in The Making of Modern America, a Houghton Mifflin Company high school textbook in the Riverside Social Studies Series, page 116, published 1950 and authored by Leon H. Canfield and Howard b. Wilder. The Making of Modern America was based upon an earlier text, The United States in the Making, by the same authors.
In 1996, the authors became aware that neither the NSDAR (National Society for the Daughters of the American Revolution) nor the NSSAR (National Society for the Sons of the American Revolution) would accept descendants of Spanish citizens of California who had contributed funds to defray expenses of the 1779-1783 war with England. As the patriots being turned down as suitable ancestors were also soldiers, the obvious question became: "Why base your membership application on a monetary contribution when the ancestor soldier had put his life at stake?" This led to a study of how the Spanish Army and Navy had worked during the war to defeat the English and thereby support the fledgling English colonies in their War for Independence. After a year of that study, the results were presented to the NSSAR; and that organization in March, 1998, began accepting descendants of Spanish soldiers who had served in California. The acceptance was based simply on service during the time period of 1779-1783 while Spain was at war with England. Because of the growing recognition of the role Spain played in our Revolutionary War, SAR membership was extended to Juan Carlos I, present King of Spain, who accepted in January, 2000, at Washington, DC. His son, the Prince of Asturias, became a member at Albuquerque, NM, in August, 2000. Their cousin, the Duke of Seville, Francisco Enrique de Borbon y Escarnes, joined in Chicago, IL, in May, 2001.

We had not by March, 1998, studied the organization of the Spanish Army in Northwestern New Spain, but we have since learned how the forces were deployed to unify the frontier and counter the influence of English or any other foreign forces. We know that orders going to California also went to Texas, New Mexico, Sonora, Nueva Vizcaya, Coahuila, Nuevo León, and Nuevo Santander. The Northwestern realm, with its unmarked border with English colonies, was a continuing concern to the highest Spanish authorities, particularly to José de Gálvez, Minister of the Interior. During 1776 while the English Colonies were declaring Independence, he reorganized the border provinces into the military structure of the Provincias Internas reporting directly to him. He authorized his nephew, Governor Bernardo de Gálvez of Louisiana, to begin clandestine help to the English Colonies. He supervised the Anza Expedition to settle San Francisco Bay. He visualized that he could regain the Floridas, lost to Britain in 1763; unify the whole northern frontier from the Mississippi River to the Pacific; and counter the British wherever they appeared.

Indeed, José de Gálvez' aims were partly accomplished. He did establish California and wipe out any historic English claims from the time of Sir Francis Drake. He did recover Florida. He made progress unifying the northern outposts, but there were not enough resources to do what he visualized. Indian tribes who were already on the vast land could not be incorporated into the Spanish way of life fast enough. Events in Europe intervened and took higher priority. So, in due course of time, the land from the Mississippi River to the Pacific became American rather than Spanish.

Therefore, we have Americans and Mexicans who descend from Spanish soldiers who fought to move the frontier forward in Northwestern New Spain. They were part of Spanish forces which held land in trust for future expansion of the United States. Since 1925, both the NSDAR and NSSAR have accepted descendants of soldiers and sailors who served under Governor Bernardo de Gálvez of Louisiana. The NSSAR also accepts descendants of soldiers and sailors who served in California through Texas. Why not accept descendants of other Spanish soldiers who served the same King, received the same orders, and fought and died trying to carry out the common strategy? That they or some of their ancestors were born south of the current border is an accident of history.

What have been missing for any prospective member are listings of soldier ancestors. We undertook to provide those listings. Our first two books covered California and the third Arizona, or at least the southern third of the state. Our fourth book covered New Mexico, the most forward thrust of the Spanish frontier. It was also the oldest and most self-sufficient of the Spanish frontier provinces. Our fifth book covered Texas, including the territory along the Rio Grande from El Paso to the Gulf of Mexico. Our sixth book covered Louisiana and West Florida. Our seventh book covered the West Indies, along with the shore areas of New Spain and New Grenada.
We now present our eighth book, covering some of the patriots of Northwestern New Spain - South of the Border - the two states of Baja California, Sinaloa, Sonora, Nueva Vizcaya (Chihuahua and Durango), Nueva Estremadura (Coahuila), Nuevo León, and Nuevo Santander (Tamaulipas). We also include naval units and other supporting units and institutions from other parts of New Spain. Our effort is to identify four groups of 1779-1783 patriots: soldiers and sailors in Spanish service; members of militia called up for service; citizens who contributed funds to defray war expenses; and priests who led public prayers for Spain's success in war.

In our listings we have designated with an asterisk those patriots who definitely served in some suitable capacity during Spain's 1779-1783 War with England. In a few cases, we have also designated with an asterisk patriots who helped provide clandestine support to the fledgling United States before Spain declared war on England. Those in our listings who have no asterisk were old enough to serve or contribute and lived in an area affected by the war; however, the documentation we found does not include any specific patriotic activity by those individuals. We consider them to be "near patriots." Descendants of these persons may be able to find and provide suitable proof for their ancestor's patriotic service.

Our presentation outline includes an introduction, summary timeline, units we could identify in each area or activity, individuals involved, epilogue comments, then references we actually used plus others which may be helpful to other researchers.

We regret we have been unable to travel to the libraries which hold additional information. We have done what we could using local libraries, interlibrary loan resources, and what we could find on the internet. We especially appreciate the continuing efforts of those who work in interlibrary loan at the El Toro Branch, Orange County Library System. They have been most patient and helpful. We also appreciate the efforts of those who work at the Documentary Relations of the Southwest, the microfilm holdings of the University of Arizona at Tucson. When they placed extracts of their holdings on the internet, it really placed our work on a more substantial footing.

1. NORTHWESTERN NEW SPAIN

New Spain included all of Mexico and the West Indies through Puerto Rico, and it was governed by a Viceroy - the personal representative of the King of Spain. The Viceroy was assisted by two Captains General, one for Guatemala, which included the Mexican state of Chiapas and the Central American republics through Costa Rica. The second Captain General was at Havana and governed the West Indies, Louisiana, and Florida. The judicial system for Northwestern New Spain was centered at Guadalajara.

The Spanish had developed their overseas possessions as sources of income for the Spanish homelands, with propagation of the Christian faith as another but somewhat secondary goal. New Spain had at first been a great source of mineral wealth; but by the last half of the eighteenth century, most easily mined ores had been exploited. Replacing this source of income was the Royal trade with Manila, which had ties with China and the treasured goods of the Far East. The treasure galleons sailed from Manila to Acapulco, then the trade goods were moved by land to Veracruz, thence to Havana or directly to Spain. The Viceroys, ever mindful of their relationships to the King, focused their attention to those parts of central Mexico moving the trade goods. Mineral wealth (gold, silver, copper, mercury, etc) also moved south where it could be processed or moved on to Veracruz and Spain.

Northwestern New Spain, to the Viceroy's Office, was a troublesome frontier somewhere up north. The governors of the border provinces were constantly reporting Indian attacks and begging for more troops and resources. The Viceroys were reluctant to divert part of the wealth destined for the King and Court of Spain into what must have seemed a bottomless pit of desultory Indian warfare. As a result, most governors believed the Viceroys were not supportive. Some got their views to King Carlos III, who sent his Visitador-General, Josef de Gálvez, to study the frontier so that corrections could be made. What Gálvez proposed, and later implemented as Minister of the Interior, was a military organization of frontier provinces, the Provincias Internas, which reported on military matters directly to the King. The defenses of the frontier were to be coordinated by a Comandante-General. The Presidios and other forces were to be rearranged to be mutually reinforcing. Finally, the military capital was to be placed near the frontier.

The first Comandante-General, Caballero Teodoro de Croix, established his command post at Arispe, in Sonora. He was able to realign the Presidios, set up units of flying cavalry and infantry, and organize and arm the militia. By the end of his service in 1783, he had almost 5000 men on call or actually under arms. His plans for actively pursuing the Indians were cut short by an order in Feb 1779, which called for reducing expenditures and holding the line while Spain was at war with England. Hence, the wartime actions of the Provincias Internas were primarily defensive or punitive in nature.

The Viceroy continued to control army and naval units in other parts of New Spain. Naval units on the West Coast were intent on reinforcing Manila and protecting the trade routes. Those on the East Coast were supporting Spanish actions in the West Indies. The army units of Mexico were made available for expeditions to West Florida, to Honduras, to Guatemala, or were held in readiness for any British move. The metal and gunpowder industries of Mexico clandestinely furnished guns and powder to American forces, then later to Spanish forces of the West Indies and to Manila. When Havana ran out of money, silver was called for from the mints of Mexico.

For research purposes, the activities of Northwestern New Spain divide into three major categories: those of the Provincias Internas; those army units and areas under the Viceroy of New Spain; and those naval units under the Viceroy of New Spain. Near the Gulf of Mexico, the areas of Nuevo Santander and Nuevo León remained also under the Viceroy's control.

2. THE NORTHWESTERN NEW SPAIN TIME LINE AND ACTIVITIES

Certain of the strategic activities taken by Spain in its efforts to block and prevent English expansion started well before the English Colonies on the East Coast began their fight for Independence. For convenience, the time line will begin in 1775, at the same time English Colonies began their struggle with England on the East Coast. By 1776, Alta California had been partially occupied to prevent England, or any other foreign power, from settling it. However, it was very expensive to keep the missions and presidios stocked with survival goods. There was great interest in establishing land-based support through Sonora, which would be easier and cheaper for all concerned. The question was: Can it be done?

A. Reinforcing California - the Anza Expeditions. Anza's First Expedition to California established that it was feasible to go from Sonora to California if one selected the season most suitable for crossing the desert. Anza was given the authority and resources to carry out the major strategic objective of settling San Francisco Bay area before any foreign power, such as England, could get to it. Some of the participants in this expedition remained in service into the War with England. Anza's Second Expedition to California in 1775/76 carried 240 people, with supporting livestock and equipment, from Sonora to Monterey and on to San Francisco. Anza had recruited the families from Alta Pimeria, Baja Pimeria, and as far south as Sinaloa. The Californianos of Northern California thus share family and cultural ties with families of Sonora and Alta Pimeria. Some of the soldiers with Anza's Expeditions returned to Sonora and later settled at Yuma or became members of the soldier escort there.

B. Provincias Internas Established. The unified command visualized by Visitador-General Josefa de Gálvez was established in 1776, but it took about two years to become effective. The first Comandante-General Caballero de Croix set up his command post in 1777 at Arispe in Sonora, where he could be close to the resupply effort for California, and close to the front for the suppression of unfriendly Indian tribes. These included the internal tribes of Sonora (the Seris and Pimas) and those of Nueva Vizcaya, Coahuila, and Nuevo Santander, as well as Apaches, Comanches, Navajos, and later Yumas. The presidios were realigned so they could be mutually supporting, and some Flying Companies of Cavalry and militia were organized for local defense and for filling in gaps in the line of presidios.

C. Clandestine Aid to Americans. Based on the relationship of their two kings, Spain and France had formed the Bourbon Alliance after they were mauled by the British during the Seven Years War. They observed the rebellion in the English Colonies and resolved to support it in order to weaken the British. In early 1776, they agreed to furnish aid through commercial dummy corporations set up as Dutch or French companies. Most of this aid went through the West Indies Dutch and French ports, where it was transloaded into American vessels. Later, when King Carlos III learned of British activities from Canada down the river system to West Florida, he began to furnish aid to the American Colonies through Louisiana, up the river system to the western outposts of American authority. The guns, cannon, and powder and other war materials came from somewhere, and the most available sources were the factories and mines of New Spain. Therefore, New Spain was involved with the American Revolution almost from its very beginning. How this aid moved to Veracruz, then into ships of West Indies traders, then to Havana and New Orleans, is largely untold. In fact, many involved in it probably had little knowledge of the ultimate destination of their products.

D. Great Southwestern Drought. A terrible drought hit the Southwest in 1777 and continued for five years. This reduced wildlife and ranching activities, caused crop failures, and placed Indian tribes in danger of starvation. The Apaches from Texas to through Arizona who normally lived by hunting and raiding found nothing by hunting. They turned completely to raiding in order to survive. Cattle were eaten, but horses could be traded for other food. It was survival of the fittest and fleetest. When other tribes saw a weakness or opportunity, they joined in.

E. Spain Declares War on England, 21 June 1779. King Carlos III of Spain declared War on England, and copies of his order were sent to every presidio and pueblo in his domain. Each Spanish force was to attack any English force, and to defend Spanish interests and territory at all costs. It was likely late 1779 before the news reached most provinces of Provincias Internas, but the expectation of war had been announced earlier. In his declaration of war, King Carlos asked every priest and church official to pray for the victory of Spain. Certainly in some jurisdictions such as California, this request for public prayers was carried out with great care and emphasis.

F. Naval Support Shifted to Manila. As soon as war began with England, the naval and maritime support from San Blas and Acapulco were focused to bolster and safeguard Manila, which England had captured during the Seven Years War. Naval support to Alta California from San Blas ceased until the war was almost over. This made it more important for the road to Alta California from Sonora be developed and kept operational.

G. King Carlos' Request for Donativo. Finding great difficulty in financing the war, King Carlos issued the following proclamation: “The insulting tyranny of the English nation has precipitated me into a war, the exorbitant cost of which has forced me to raise the revenue exacted from the provinces of our Spanish homeland by a third. I had hoped not to extend this burden to my loyal subjects in America, even though they would seem to be the principal target of the grasping avarice of my enemies. Nevertheless, I have always been able to count on the faithful generosity of the voluntary contributions of those vast and wealthy colonies. To make this burden as light as possible, I have resolved to ask for a donativo of one peso from every freeman who is an Indian or of mixed blood, and two pesos from every Spaniard and those of the higher class. These last may also pay for their servants and workers and later discount the amount from their salaries or daily wages. Therefore, I command all of my royal officials in the Indies to announce and explain my royal decree so that all the inhabitants of the Indies will once again have opportunity to show me their love and gratitude for the benefits I have bestowed on them. I also charge all of my church officials there to expedite this project by their persuasion and good example, for this is my will. All copies of this decree, duly signed by my Secretary of State and Universal Office of the Indies, who also signs below, shall have the same force as the original. Given at San Ildefonso, on this seventeenth day of August of the year seventeen hundred and eighty. Signed by “I, the King,” and José de Gálvez (Minister of the Indies), and certified as a copy of the original by José de Gálvez. It took a year for this decree to clear the English blockade and get through the offices of Viceroy Martín de Mayaorga of Mexico City and Comandante General Cabellero de Croix at Arispe, Sonora. Commissioners were set up for each jurisdiction. Donors were to be males 18 and over, they were not to be coerced into contributing. Commissioners were to give each donor a receipt for the amount given. The collections were stopped in the Provincias Internas in January, 1784. The New Spain tabulation in 1787 showed that almost one million pesos had been collected. The total for Sonora and Sinaloa was 22,420 pesos and 4 reales. This equates to more than 10,000 male adults making contributions, but few records have been identified for individuals contributors.

H. Trouble at the Yuma Mission Settlements, 1779-81. The overland passage from Sonora to California had one critical area, the Colorado River crossing, which was controlled by the friendly Yuma Indians. In order to consolidate the ties of the Yumas to the Spanish, Anza proposed that a Presidio be established at the crossing area, with the usual supporting missions. After some delay and funding problems, this proposal was watered down to establishing two fortified missions, with ten soldier families and several other families with each mission. This was finally carried out in 1779 and 1780, but the settlers arrived too late to plant crops. They thus became a burden to the Yumas and a drain on Yuma food supplies. The Yumas became disillusioned by 1781.

I. War with Seri Indians, 1780-81. The Seri Indians of the mountains of Sonora, suffering from the drought and never friendly with the Spanish, rose up in rebellion in 1780 and had to be put down. They endangered the roads from Sinaloa to the Colorado River. They were overpowered by a force which included the Catalonian Volunteers under Lt Col Pedro Fages. It thus happened that this force was available in the area when it was learned that the Yumas had also revolted.

J. Yuma Massacre of July 1781. Part of the strategic plan for securing Alta California was to establish another presidio at Santa Barbara, establish Channel missions, and establish a second pueblo at Los Angeles. The Expedition for these objectives was headed by Captain Rivera and was in two groups. The first group crossed from San Blas to Baja California, then moved up the peninsula to Mission San José. The second group moved north from Sinaloa through Sonora to the Colorado River, which it reached in June, 1781. The families from this group were sent on to San José, while Capt Rivera and several soldiers stayed with the livestock at the Colorado, allowing them to fatten up on the beans and other supplies the Yumas depended on for winter sustenance. This was more than the Yumas could stand. In July 1781, the Yumas rose up in rebellion and killed all the priests and most of the soldiers and male settlers of the mission settlements. They took the women and children as slaves and for ransom. They also killed Capt Rivera and his contingent of soldiers, capturing all of the livestock intended for California.

K. Yuma Campaigns. The first campaign by Lt Col Pedro Fages was able to contact the Yumas and ransom most of the captive wives and children. This force was not able to subdue the Yumas, so Lt Col Fages went to California to gain help. By the time he arrived in California, the Colorado River was in flood stage and the campaign had to wait until Fall 1782. This time it was led by Lt Col Felipe de Neve from California. Combined forces from Sonora and California moved against the Yumas in the Fall of 1782; however, they were unable to corner the Yumas or cause them to fight. The Spanish forces burned all the Yuma villages they could find and returned to their presidios. Names of those who participated in this campaign have been partially recovered, and it included soldiers from both California and Sonora presidios.

L. Trade Routes for New Mexico, 1780-81. The overall strategic plan was to unite the provinces of the northern frontier. New Mexico, in particular, wanted trade routes and markets for its products, either to Texas or to Sonora. Lt Col Anza, as Governor of New Mexico, led an expedition from New Mexico to Tucson, establishing that a trade route was feasible. He was joined in this exploration by contingents from Sonora and from Nueva Vizcaya. New Mexico could now envisage trade with California along the new trails being developed; however, the Yuma uprising cut these trails for several generations. Lt Col Anza then worked on other trade routes to St Louis, Nachitoches, and San Antonio. These routes were developed after the war.

M. Smallpox Epidemic. A terrible smallpox epidemic hit the Southwest in 1780/81 and devastated some Indian tribes, already weakened because of food shortages from the drought. Those tribes where families lived in close proximity to each other as in the pueblos were especially hard hit. The Southwest area, as a whole, lost up to ten percent of its population, and certainly some Indian rancheros and the pueblos lost more. The Comanches, living in scattered villages on the open plains, were not so heavily hit; but they were fairly quiet for several years, partly because they had been weakened from smallpox.

N. Apache Attacks, 1779-1784. Comandante-Generals de Croix and Felipe de Neve were constantly harassed by news of Apache raids and killings. The Apaches kept spies among the other tribes who informed them of opportunities for raids and they followed through. No area was safe. No horseherd (caballada) was secure enough to prevent capture. As the Apaches had lived by raiding for many generations, there was no way to stop them by treaty. To the Apaches, they either raided or starved. Thus, the Apaches were the local enemy of the Spanish, not English forces. The names of those killed or who fought as local militia against the Apaches are not all known.

O. Comanche Attacks, 1779-1783. The Comanches were direct threats to New Mexico and Texas; but they were indirectly a threat to other parts of the Provincias Internas. They were putting pressure on the Apaches by moving south through eastern New Mexico and western Texas. They gained possession of the Southern plains and blocked access of the Eastern Apaches to their customary food source of buffalo. Governor de Anza defeated the Comanches in battle in what is now Colorado and kept them at arms length on the eastern New Mexico border. This forced the Comanches eastward into Texas, where they raided freely when and where they chose. They even made a few raids across the Rio Grande, which the Spanish blamed on the Apaches.

P. Establishing Flying Companies. The Compañía Volante (Flying Company) was a long-standing Spanish alternative to presidial companies or to regular Spanish regiments. These flying companies of either mounted infantry or cavalry were moved from one hot spot to another within the jurisdiction. Soldiers of these units were indeed local persons willing to live a somewhat nomadic life, though some married and took their families with them. Comandante-General de Croix took steps to establish flying companies in the Provincias Internas, and they became dependable forces in Nueva Vizcaya, Coahuila, and Nuevo Santander. In Sonora, he took another approach, setting up two Ópata Indian companies and two Pima/Pápago companies which performed in the same way.
Q. Reinforcing Militia Units. The best example of militia activity in a Spanish province can be found in Marc Simmons' Spanish Government in New Mexico..., page 150: "The general situation with regard to the militia in New Mexico at the end of the eighteenth century appears thus: all able men (ages 14 to 60) were enlisted in hometown units led by their own officers, either captains, lieutenants or alfereces (sub-lieutenants) who received their appointments from the governor. Militiamen ordinarily received no pay, furnished their own arms, and, if joined to a cavalry company, they provided the necessary horses and pack animals. (There seemed to be sporadic outlays from the royal treasury to make purchases of lead and powder for the militia units.) Periodically, they underwent inspections (revistas) at which times the unit's strengths and armaments were listed. The militia were called out at the sound of a drum in times of emergencies or whenever a campaign was to be undertaken. Service was distributed as fairly as possible among the citizens so no individual would be overburdened. Occasionally, in special instances, the government appropriated funds to pay militiamen who were called upon to perform extraordinary service outside their own districts." It was this tradition that Comandante-General de Croix called upon to help with local Indian problems. Most pueblos now south of the border such as El Paso del Norte (Juárez) were almost entirely dependent on their own militia.

R. End of War with England. The Treaty of Paris on 3 Sep 1783 ended the war, and Comandante-General Felipe de Neve was aware of this by Jan, 1784, as indicated by his correspondence with Governor de Anza of New Mexico. It is certain de Neve also notified his other governors at the same time. Actually, ending the war with England had no effect on the Apache and Comanche threats, though it could give hope that more resources would become available to the Northwestern frontier.

S. Subsequent Activities of Soldier and Sailor Veterans. Provincias Internas veterans of Spain’s 1779-1783 War with England found little change with the end of the war. The campaigns against marauding Apaches and Comanches continued. Support of Alta CA by sea from San Bias resumed. In 1784 and 1785, the Malaspina Scientific Expedition and the visit of French forces to Alta CA were of great interest to Spanish authorities. With the King’s support, San Bias veterans extended their explorations of the Northwest Pacific Coast until they met the Russians in the Aleutians. The Nootka controversy over Vancouver Island in 1789-91 almost led to another war with England, but this was finally compromised with both countries having rights of passage. The Spanish fortified settlement on Nootka was abandoned and the forces were withdrawn to Alta California. Spain’s internal troubles and those arising from the French Revolution stopped the posting of young Spanish officers and enlisted men to the frontier. Provincias Internas armed forces became increasingly Mexican, and these soldiers and officers resisted Spanish trade and religious restrictions and they objected to sending Mexican wealth to Spain. The stage was gradually set for Mexico’s own moves toward independence.
A. Provincias Internas.

Herbert E. Bolton stated the Spanish frontier stretched from Saint Augustine, Florida, to San Francisco, California, along the present southern and western borders of the continental United States. He then listed the presidios which protected that continuous border as San Agustín, Apalache, Pensacola, Los Adaes, La Bahia, San Antonio, San Saba, El Paso, Sante Fe, Janos, Fronteras, Terrenate, Tubac, Altar, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Monterey, and San Francisco. (Herbert E. Bolton, p 53 of "The Mission as a Frontier Institution," The American Historical Review, Vol XXIII, No. 1 (1917), pp 42-61). While this was a good way to dramatize the Spanish situation, these presidios did not all exist at the same time, nor were they mutually supportive. Bolton paid little attention to the naval units and installations which supported the frontier and moved supplies and people from Spain to America.

The presidios were actually in isolated geographical jurisdictions, each bound by chain of command to await orders from central authorities in Mexico or Spain before taking action. In time, they did receive identical orders on how to make war on England, or to collect funds for defraying expenses of the war with England. All were at the end of the communication links with Mexico and Spain, and they generally got news six months to one year after the event. While Visitador-General José de Gálvez was in Northern New Spain analyzing the frontier defense problems, he could see that the presidios were not in optimal positions, that the chain of command was slow and awkward, and that the fighting capability of the presidios was quite limited. He proposed three major changes, which King Carlos III put into effect in 1776, but he left other problems unsolved.

1. Separate the military and civil functions by putting all the military functions under a Comandante-General of the Provincias Internas. This improved many aspects of the frontier defense, but it did not give the Comandante-General any new access to resources. The Viceroy of New Spain still determined the overall priorities and could make or break the work of the Comandante-General.

2. Realign the presidios so they were more nearly mutually supportive. Several presidios were actually moved, but the settler families they left behind were soon victims of Indian attacks. Sometimes the new locations were successful, as at Tucson, but others were returned to their old locations.

3. Move the military command center far to the north. The town selected was Arispe, in Sonora. It was then at the most important strategic point, the closest town to the strategic Colorado passage to Alta California. It had little other advantage. It was actually harder for TX and NM to send messages to Arispe than to the Viceroy. Sometimes the messages to or from Arispe had to go south with regular mail to Mexico City, then back north to their destination.

Two perennial problems not addressed by the changes were those of supply for the presidios, and the arms and equipment for individual soldiers. The supply system was set up so that a presidio commander could become wealthy at the expense of his command. As for arms, the presidial soldier had little that had not been copied from those used 300 years earlier against the Moors in Spain. It is a wonder that the presidial forces held the line as well as they did.

The actions of the Comandantes-General had significant effects on the results. The first to hold the office, Caballero de Croix, first inspected the entire frontier from TX to CA. He held meetings with presidio commanders, where they jointly and severally analyzed their defense problems. One interesting thing which El Caballero found was that about 30% of all soldiers were guarding their caballada (horse herds). Experience had taught the commanders that you either guarded your herds, or the Indians took them. Further, soldiers were expected to carry the mail, provide escort for visitors, and punish those who raided the pueblos or ranchos. Home guard remaining at a presidio typically included one or two officers, soldiers who were sick, invalids, or retired, and a few of the least experienced soldiers.
When Comandante-General de Croix recognized that each presidio was over-committed in its own area, he set up flying companies which could be sent to any part of the frontier. He also bolstered the militia and set up Indian Auxiliary units of Opatá and Pima/Papago Indians. These units were paid by Spain and had Regular Army Spanish officers. Though mounted, they first fought with bows and arrows, but were gradually armed with guns as their services became dependable. De Croix also fostered alliances with friendly Indian tribes and encouraged them to attack other Indian tribes who were raiding the Spanish areas. By the end of his service, he had over 4600 men designated and able to fight. These armed men were in five areas of operations.

The far Western area included the Pacific Coast presidios of San Diego, Santa Barbara, Monterey, and San Francisco, which were supported by the Presidio of Loreto in Baja California and the Naval Department at San Blas. The activities in Baja California and at San Blas are of concern to this study.

The second area with armed groups were those of the Sonoran Desert, west of the Sierra Madre and along the east coast of the Gulf of California, headed by the old presidios of Tubac (moved to Tucson), Fronteras (moved to San Bernardino, then back to Fronteras), Terrenate (moved to Las Nutrias, then to Santa Cruz), and Altar. Comandante de Croix moved the Presidio of San Miguel de Orcasitas back to its original site at El Pitu, but he also established a military settlement to support it. He established one new presidio at Bavispe made up of 82 Oapatá Indians, and another at La Estancia de Buenavista, made up of 82 Pima Indians. Croix also intended to establish a presidio at the junction of the Gila and Colorado Rivers, but his engineer could not find an area with enough forage and agricultural support. Instead Croix opted for two small mission settlements with 21 soldier families to secure them. When these settlements were massacred in July 1781, Croix gave up any plans for fortifying the Colorado crossing. The massacre also frustrated any promise of trade from New Mexico and Nueva Vizcaya westward with California. The massacre and its subsequent unsuccessful punitive campaigns against the Yumas were a major setback for Croix and a blemish to his reputation. However, he did somewhat secure Sonora internally, leaving 648 men under arms. At times, he also had a picket of Dragoons at Arispe, and the Second Company of the Voluntarios de Cataluña under his command. Part of his plan included establishing a second Pima/Papago company at the old presidial site at Tubac, and a second Opatá company at Bocoachi, but these did not get organized until after his departure.

While Alta Pimería (Arizona) remained an isolated prong subject to repetitive Apache attacks, Sonora became relatively quiet internally. The Seri Indians withdrew into the mountains and no longer collaborated with the Apaches. Sonora's southern area of Sinaloa continued to grow and exploit its resources.

The third area of armed groups was those of Nueva Vizcaya and part of Coahuila, in the heart of the Chihuahuan desert, the great broken central plateau of Northern Mexico through New Mexico to Colorado. The defensive line was essentially in two parts, with the western part protected by the presidios of Janos, San Buenaventura, Carrizal, and a new garrison at Casas Grandas. These four units had 335 armed men. The eastern part included the presidios of San Elizario, the militia of El Paso, and the downriver presidios of El Príncipe at Pilares, Las Juntas at Presidio, TX, and San Carlos across the Rio Grande from Lajitas, TX. The militia of El Paso had been set up by Governor de Anza of New Mexico in 1778 into two companies, one with 46 Spaniards and 30 Indians, and the other with 47 Spaniards and 30 Indians. To support the presidios and to patrol the areas between, Croix set up the First, Second, Third, and Fourth Flying Companies of Nueva Vizcaya, composed of 584 men. These companies were located at Guajojilla, Pasajo, Conchos, and Namiquipa, but they did move to different locations when the threats changed.

Croix took two additional steps to assure defense of Nueva Vizcaya and parts of Coahuila. First, he set up an excise tax and called for contributions to arm militia units for self-protection. In a short time, he had 100,000 pesos. With these, he did indeed organize the Provincial Militia Corps of Nueva Vizcaya with 1892 designated men distributed as follows: San Carlos de Cerregordo: 2 squadrons and 7 companies (301 men); Príncipe: 3 squadrons and 10 companies; Durango: 1 squadron and 3 companies; San Gabriel: 1 squadron and 3 companies; Santa Rosa de Consiguriachic: 2 squadrons and 6 companies; Santiago Mapimi: 2 squadrons and 7 companies; and San Juan Bautista: 2 squadrons and 8 companies.
The second step Croix took for protecting this area was to establish two lines of military settlements in Nueva Vizcaya and Coahuila to support the other forces. These included San Juan Nepomuceno, Rancho de Malo Noche, Majalca, San Gerónimo pueblo, Hacienda de Ormígas, Correras, El Namiquipa, Rancho de Malo Noche, Majalca, San Gerónimo pueblo, Hacienda de Ormígas, Correras, El Namiquipa, Rancho de Malo Noche, and El Coyamé. The second line began at Chihuahua and included Dolores, Ancon de Carros, Puebloito, and El Coyamé. The second line began at Chihuahua and included Dolores, Ancon de Carros, Puebloito, and El Coyamé. Sometimes these military settlements were referred to as presidios. Most had organized and partially trained militia units. Sometimes the home area for a Flying Company was also referred to as a presidio.

The fourth area of armed groups was those of Coahuila and Texas. The two presidios of Texas, Béjar/San Antonio and Bahía del Espíritu Santo/Goliad were the eastern end of the defensive line. Next was the Presidio of Rio Grande at San Juan Bautista across from Eagle Pass, TX, then the Presidio of Monclova on the Rio Grande at its confluence with the San Diego, the Presidio of Aguaverde on the Rio Grande at its confluence with the San Rodrigo, and San Saba at San Vicente on the Rio Grande, and the Presidio of La Babia. The militia units for San Juan Bautista and the supporting military settlements were noted above. Also a Flying Company of 100 men was at Saltillo, having been formed from the pickets of Cerrejón and El Pasaje. Croix concluded that the Presidios of San Saba, Monclova, Aguaverde, and La Babia were poorly placed because the Apaches could easily bypass them. He apparently suppressed San Saba in 1781, moved Aguaverde to San Fernando de Monclova the provincial capital of Coahuila, and moved La Babia to the Santa Rosa valley. It is not clear what happened to the Presidio of Monclova on the Rio Grande.

Comandante-General Theodoro de Croix tried very hard to coordinate military efforts from Texas to California, with limited funding during most years, and especially during the 1779-1783 years while Spain was at war with England. He was meticulous in passing on orders from the King to each presidio and to others in the military chain of command. Regular Army officers or units from Spain were frequently assigned where openings or needs occurred anywhere in Provincias Internas, either north or south of the present border. The presidial and Flying Company enlisted troops, however, were typically local and married and were not transferred as readily.

B. Army Units under the Viceroy.

The Viceroy had full control of army units in the Mexican area of New Spain, except those in Provincias Internas. He did control financial affairs for those units as well. In the Northern areas, he retained control of Nuevo León and Nuevo Santander (Tamaulipas). Spanish Regular Army units assigned to New Spain included: Regiment of Asturias, authorized 1377 soldiers; Regiment of Grenada from Spain, authorized 1377 soldiers; Regiment of the Crown, authorized 1377 soldiers; 2 Companies of Cataluña, authorized 160 soldiers, less those on loan to Provincias Internas; 2 Companies of San Juan de Ulúa at Veracruz, authorized 240 artillerymen; Dragoon Regiment of Spain, authorized 521 troops, one detachment on loan with the Provincias Internas at Arispe; and the Dragoon Regiment of Mexico, authorized 521 troops. The Viceroy thus was authorized 5373 regular soldiers, but the number was actually considerably smaller because the units were seldom complete. The Regiment of Asturias had arrived from Cadiz in 1777, and it was still recovering from its voyage. The Regiment of Grenada was due for rotation back to Spain, and it was replaced by the Regiment of Zamora, which had apparently been in the West Indies. The Regiment of the Crown was sent to Havana in 1781, and from there it went to New Grenada. Before it left, the Viceroy brought it up to strength from other Regular units. When the Viceroy was asked to send supporting soldiers to the Philippines, he took 400 veterans from the Regular units and sent them in 1779 and 1780.

The Viceroy also had four Provincial militia infantry units and five cavalry units which were seldom up to strength or sufficiently equipped or trained to be effective. The infantry included: Prov Regt Inf del Córdova y Jalapa; Prov Regt Inf de México; Prov Regt Inf de Tlaxcala y Puebla; and Prov Regt Inf de Toluca. The cavalry included Mounted Inf de Querétaro; Prov. Regt, Dragoons de Puebla; Lancer Squaron de Veracruz; Prince's Mixed Legion of Inf and Cav of Guanajuanto; and the Legion of San Carlos in San Luis Potosí. There were also four groups of pardos (mulattos) and morenos (blacks) available as the Bn, Pardos of Mexico; Bn, Pardos of Puebla; Company Pardos of Veracruz; and the Provincial Company of Morenos of Veracruz. During the war, active regiments were formed in Oaxaca and Valladolid, as well as several presidial companies in Veracruz.
On the northern frontier, the Province of Nuevo León had one presidial company in Monterrey, and it had detachments from this company at Punta de Lampazos. A company of cavalry was apparently at Orcasitas y Punta de Lampazos for some time in 1781-82. The Province of Nuevo Santander did not depend on presidios as much as on Flying Companies of Cavalry or Infantry. The squads of these companies were located at: Santa María de Aguayo, Altamira, Croix, Escandon, San Francisco de Guemez, San Juan Bautista; Horcasitas/Colonia de Horcasitas. La Corona Juamabe, Laredo, Villa Nueva de Santa María de Llera, Marina, Padilla, Palmaras, Distrito of Rioblanca, San Carlos, Santa Barbara, Santander, Santillana, de Soto la Marina, and Tulabas. The Esquadron Volante de Nuevo Santander may have been the collective name for these local squads.

C. Naval Units under Control of the Viceroy.

The Viceroy had nominal control of all naval installations and naval units; however, this control was coordinated by naval authorities in Spain. Units for the Veracruz Naval Department and the Port of Acapulco have not been identified. The San Blas Naval Department included the Naval Department with its support base and these ships: packetboat, Aranzazu, 1782 crew of 41, including Chaplain; packetboat, Concepción, 1777 crew of 41, including Chaplain; frigate, Favorita, 1780 crew of 72, including Chaplain; ladchita, Lauretana, 1779, also called a packetboat; blandra, Pilar, 1779; frigate, El Princesa, 1779-1783, crew of 72, including Chaplain; packetboat, El Príncipe (San Antonio), 1777, to Manila in 1779, also called a bergantín; packetboat, San Carlos (Toison), 1777, to Manila in 1779, crew of 41, including Chaplain, also called a bergantín; packetboat, San Carlos (El Filipino), 1782, crew of 41, including Chaplain; ship, San Juan Nepomuceno, 1779; navio de guerra, San Lucas, 1777; frigate, Santiago, 1777, 1780, crew of 72, including Chaplain; goleta, Señora de Guadalupe, 1777; schooner or goleta, Sonora/Nuestra Señora de la Soledad, 1777. San Blas was protected by First Company, Batallón Provincial de San Blas.

The Viceroy had some influence over the Manila Naval Department which included: packetboat, San Carlos (Toison), after 1779; packet boat, El Príncipe (San Antonio), after 1779; and other units not identified.

D. Missions of Northwestern New Spain – South of the Border.

The Spanish thrust into Indian territories of Northern Mexico included the military with presidios, missions to convert the Indians, and towns, ranches, and mines to support the missions, military, and other Spanish activities of gathering the wealth of the land. Missions were of great concern because they were able to garner wealth and power which others wanted. What the missions did best was to introduce the Indians to new crops, livestock, and new ways of thinking about making a living. They weaned the Indians away from traditional hunting and gathering into dependence on year-round agriculture and living in one given area near the missions. In fact, everyone in the Spanish culture had a village where he was expected to live and no one changed their villages without permission. So, Indians who left their missions were hunted down by the presidial soldiers and returned, where they were punished by the soldiers as directed by the priests. Some of the operating missions and visitas in the 1779-1784 time era included:

Alta Pimería/Sonora under Franciscans from Querétaro: In the Santa Cruz River basin in Sonora were Bocoanocs, San Carlos de Buenavista, Santa Bárbara, Santa María de Suamca, and Santa Cruz. On the Río Altar in Sonora were San Ignacio de Caborca with visitas at San Antonio Pitiqué and Nuestra Señora del Pópolo Bisán, San Diego del Pitiqué, Altar, San Antonio de Oquitoa, Atíl, Santa Teresa, San Pedro y San Pablo de Tubutama with Santa Teresa, Delores del Saric with San José Aquimuri, Busaníc, Tocubavia, Arizona, and Planchas de Plata. On the Río Magdalena in Sonora were Santa Ana, Magdalena, San Ignacio de Caborca, Ímuris, and Nuestra Señora de Concepción de Caborca, and Nuestra Señora Guadalupe de Cocospera. On the San Miguel River in Sonora were Cosari/Dolores, and Cucurpe with Tuape. Mentioned by Bishop Antonio de Reyes and others were Aconchi with Babiacora, Arivechi with Bacanora, San Francisco
Ati with San Antonio Oquitoa, Baca, Bacadamachi, Baca; Bacheche, Bacum, Bamao, Banamichi with Guepac and Sinoquique, Basaraca with Guachimena and Babispe, Batuco with Tepuspe, Belen/Belem, Camoa, Mocorito, Nabojoa, Onobas with Tenichi and Soyopa, Onapa, Onavas, Opodepe with Nacameri, Oposura with Taropa and Tepachae, Ostimuri, Parroquia de San Miguel Arcangel, Rahum, Risichicos, Saguaripe with Teopara, San Josf de Pinaz, San Miguel, Tarachica, Tectoripa with Suaqui, Tecueco, Torim/Toria, Toro, Tubutami, San Jose de los Ures with Santa Rosalía, Vicam, Yecori. Bancroft mentions Zarachi and Onapa with Yecora, Boca de Gandu with Nacori and Mochope, and Cucularachi. Bancroft mentions missions of the South as Conicari with Tepaqui and Macoyam, Batacosa, Matape with Nacori, and for Pimeria Alta San Ignacio with San José Imuris and Santa María Magdalena, Santa María de Suamca with Santiago de Cocópera, Santos Angeles de Guevavi with San José de Tumacacori, San Cayetano de Calabazas, and San Ignacio de Sonoaíac. Others mentioned Los Angeles, Oquitoa, Remedios, San Pablo, San Felipe and Santiago de Sinaloa, Soniata, Suaqui, Toria, and Jesús de Tutuaca.

Nueva Vizcaya in the El Paso area under Franciscans included Nuestra Señora de Guadalupe de El Paso del Norte, Yáñez, San Lorenzo, Senecú, Socorro del Paso, and Nuestra Señora de Soledad at San Elizario. Other missions were Atonalillo, Babanoyaba, Baborigame, Bachimba, Boquerachi, Cahuichic, Carichac, Carretas, Casa Grandes, Cuchillo Parodo, Guanacevi, Guanachic, Guazapares, Loreto, Matachic, Moris, Navogame, Nombre de Dios, Nogorachi, Nuestra Señora de Guadalupe, Nuestra Señora del Pilar de Coyames, El Templo
de Nuestro Padre Jesús Nazareno at Ojinaga, Paguearchic, Papagoic, Purisima, Sacramento, San Andrés, San Antonio de Julimes, San Antonio de los Pulques, San Barabé de Cushingirlic, San Bartolomé, San Cristóbal, San Francisco de Mezquital, San Francisco de los Sumas, San Gregorio, San Gerónimo, San Ignacio, San Javier, San Juan Batista de Rio Grande, San Miguel, San Pablo, San Pedro Alcantara, San Pedro Namaquipa, Apóstol Santiago, San Francisco de los Conchos, Santa Ana, Santa Catalina de
Tepeluhanes, Santa Gertrudis de los Sumas, Santa Isabel, Santa María de las Parras, Santo Tomás, Satevé, Soledad de Janos, Tapacolmes, San José de Temaichic, Tomohic, Torreón, Tubaris, Yamoriba, Yapachic, Yeporoma, and Yepachic.

Coahuila missions included Aguayo, Candela, San Bernardo, San Jorja, San Fernando de Austrias, San Francisco Solano in Alamo, San Juan Bautista, Nuestra Señora de la Candalaria, Dulce Nombre de Jesús de Peyotes with San Pedro de Gigedo, Nuestro Padre San Francisco de Vizarrón, and San Bernando in Guerrero, San Lorenzo, San Mateo, Santa Cruz, Santa Rosa del Sacramento, and Santiago Cathedral in Saltillo, and Vizarrón.

Nuevo León missions included Cerralvo, Hualahuises, Nuestra Señora de los Dolores de la Puntas de Lampazes, San Bernardino de la Candela, San Miguel Arcangel in Bustamente, San Nicolás de Gualeguas in Agualiguas, and Santa María de Los Angeles at Aramberri.

Nuevo Santander missions included Nuestra Señora de los Dolores at Laredo, Immaculate Concepción de la
Purísima Concepción at Mier, San Antonio de los Llanos, San Agustín at Camargo, San Carlos Borromeo en
Vallecillos, San Joaquín de Monte at Reynosa, San Francisco Solano de Ampuero at Revilla, Santa Rosa, San Ildefonso, and José de Escandon.

E. Other Spanish Installations of Northwestern New Spain – South of the Border.

The first pueblos of Northwestern New Spain were mining towns established wherever gold, copper, silver, mercury, or other good ores were found. Later, to support these towns, agriculture was established both by the missions and by other settlers, either in pueblos or in haciendas/ranchos. After the Provincias Internas was established, several military settlements were made in order to control Indian depredations.

The only pueblos of significance in Baja California were Totos Santos and La Paz. Mining towns included Real de San Antonio in the south and Santa Rosalía in the north. Real de Santa Ana was also mentioned. These and the support port of San Blas across the Gulf of California from Baja California were deply involved with supporting the move into Alta California.

In 1780, the total population was over 100,000.
The pueblos, military settlements, and great haciendas of Nuevo Estremadura/Coahuila include:

Adjuntos, Aguanueva, Aguaverde, Santiago del Alamo, Alamo Viejo, Anaelo, Anco de Carros, La Babia, Conception, Cuatro Ciéneas hacienda, Cruces, Cuencamé, La Encarnación, Guachichil, Guajaquilía, Hidalgo del Cura, Jara hacienda, Longoria hacienda, San Francisco de Malpás, Mazapil, Mesillas rancho, Miraflores, San Francisco de Moncova Viejo, Moncova Nuevo o Concepción, Viejo, Mula, Naba, Natales, Parras, Palomomas de Adentro, Palomas de Afuera, Pecho, Pelayo, Porteño de Guajardo, Potrerillos rancho, Saltillo and its barrios, San Blas (Los Arcos), San Buenaventura, San Carlos de Parras, San Diego del Mezquital, San Esteban de Tlaxcala, San Fernando de Austria, San Fernando de Rosas, San Juan Bautista de Berros, San Juan Bautista del Río Grande, San Juan de Casta, San Juan del Río, San Juan de la Vaquería, San Lucas y Ortega, San Nicolás rancho, Santa Ana de los Rodriguez, Santa Ana de los Valdeces, Santa María, Santa Monica rancho, Santa Rita, Santa Rosa, San Vicente, Sardinas hacienda, Tapado rancho, Valle de Santa Rosa, and Zapopán. In 1780, the total population was 8,000.

The pueblos and great haciendas/ranches of Nuevo Santander/Tamaulipas included: Aguayo, Altamira, Santa Ana de Camargo, Cántaro, Concepción de Carricitos ranch, Croix, Delores, El Arcabuz ranch, El Cobo ranch, El Guardado ranch, El Paso de Agúcar ranch, El Paso de las Arrierías ranch, Escandón, Güemes, Hacienda de San Antonio de los Martínez at Marín, Haciendo de Dolores ranch, Horcasitas, Hoyos, La Bonita and San Nicolás ranch, La Feria grant, Llano Grande grant, La Marina Soto/Matamoros, Laredo and Nueva Laredo, Las Animas ranch, Las Jaras ranch, Las Salinas ranch, Linares, Llera, Los Arrieros ranch, Malagueco ranch, Mier, Miguel Pérez ranch, Padilla, Palo Blanco, Potrero del Espíritu Santo ranch, Potrero de Santa Isabel ranch, Puertecitos ranch, Real de Borbón, Real de los Infantes, Reynosa, Revilla/Ciudad Guerrero, Rincon de Estero ranch, Padilla, San Fernando, San Pedro de Carricitos ranch, San Simón ranch, Santa Albina ranch, Santander, Santiago, Santillana, Savinito ranch, and Tula. Stock raising was the major activity of the families who settled this area. While most of their grants of land were large in acreage, they were not large relative to the water and forage available and the number of livestock being raised. By 1800, Nuevo Santander had 15,000 people.

5. EPILOGUE

This volume is the eighth we have compiled for Spanish veterans of Spain’s 1779-1783 War with England – During the American Revolution. Our previous volumes covered soldiers and sailors within the borders of New Spain from San Francisco through Puerto Rico. In this eighth study we take up the provinces of Northwestern New Spain which are now in the northern part of Mexico bordering the United States. During the War with England, these provinces were linked to the Spanish Borderlands now within the United States.

We used whatever sources of information we could get through interlibrary loan, from the internet, from the local University libraries, and from the LDS Family Center lending system. We do not claim we have listed all soldiers and sailors who served from the study area, but we do claim we have made the most complete list yet compiled.

Yet we know there is much additional information in the libraries and data bases we have listed in our references; and we encourage interested persons who can travel to make use of these sources. It may be possible for us in the future to gain access to these sources so that we can update and add to this volume. In particular, we would list all the soldiers on the rosters held by the University of Arizona in its “Documentary Relations of the Southwest,” and which we partially listed below on pages 171-172.

We hope we have encouraged some persons to take interest in the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution (NSSAR). Where several people are interested, new chapters can be formed. We believe there are at least twenty cities in Northern Mexico where there are enough descendants of soldiers to form these chapters. Consider the size and history of Matamoros, Nuevo Laredo, Juárez, Tijuana, Chihuahua, Monterrey, Monclova, and La Paz.

For those who wonder if this is in the spirit of the original founders of the NSSAR, it is worthwhile to consider that there are two perceptions, first, the traditional one of the strictly American Revolution, which took place in thirteen English colonies on the Atlantic seaboard, and which lasted from 1775 until 1783. Then there is the second perception, the BIG AMERICAN REVOLUTION, which lasted from 1775 through 1823, and which liberated nearly all the colonies of both North and South America and created more than twenty nations. More and more historians are now recognizing that our current focus should be on the BIG AMERICAN REVOLUTION rather than the traditional one.

Indeed, the original founders of the NSSAR welcomed descendants of French veterans and opened chapters in France by 1900. Descendants of Spanish veterans were first welcomed into the SAR chapters in Louisiana in 1925. The main problem at that time was identifying the records of service of the Spanish veterans. (Recall that all those who served from Louisiana did so under the Spanish flag as Spanish soldiers or sailors, and the records were in German, French, Spanish, and English.) So the NSSAR has always been an inclusive organization, not an exclusive one.

In the 1990 decade, descendants of Spanish veterans of California, New Mexico, and Texas were accepted. We noted on page iii that King Carlos III of Spain has had three descendants join, based on his contributions as leader of Spain in supporting the war against England. More recently, the King of Sweden, a descendant of King Gustavus III of Sweden, has joined based on his ancestor’s allowing Swedish naval officers to join the French and Dutch naval services after those countries were at war with England. These kings, and the King of France, gave the orders, and their soldiers and sailors carried them out. If descendants of kings can join, then why not those who carried out their orders and fought the English where they could? If any male can prove he is a descendant from one of the veterans listed in this volume and can show documentation for that veteran’s service and his own lineage to that veteran, it is probable he would be accepted into the SAR.

Some of the presidios and flying companies listed did not exist during Spain's 1779-1783 War with England. The fixed installations of units were in Presidios or as "Fist," which might be translated as "nervous." Another area under Nueva Vizcaya was that of the Carrizal Presidio, which had been closed in 1793. It should be noted that the Presidio at San Elizario was under the jurisdiction of Nueva Vizcaya, not New Mexico. Therefore, census listings for the El Paso area do not include the soldiers and families; however, many living downriver are included below because they show up in prenuptial investigations and in military correspondence.

Most of these soldiers and families were from El Paso and maintained ties there. Their names also show up in prenuptial investigations and in military correspondence.

The Second Company of Volante (Flying Company) of San Carlos de Parras of Nueva Vizcaya was organized and stationed at the town of San José y Santiago del Alamo, west of the city of Saltillo for many years. It was then for a brief time at Cerrogordo. In January, 1803, it was transferred to the Texas Mission of San Antonio de Valero, which had been closed in 1793. Loomis: Noel M. Loomis, "Comandantes-General of the Interior Provinces: A Preliminary List," Arizona and the West, vol 11 (Autumn, 1969). The Comandantes-General, listed pages 26-268, were generally the most successful military leaders or the most politically astute. They are listed on nearly all the correspondence which has been preserved for their periods. Even at the end of the period of Spanish rule, most of the Comandantes-General were old enough to have served during Spain's 1779-1783 War with England.

AGN's CD-Rom (with Boolean search) sells for $100 US, directly from AGN. (Each Ramo is a branch or major division of the Archive. Within each Ramo, the records are bundled into numbered Legajos or volumes, sometimes further divided into Expedientes, then into folios, or numbered pages).

Archivo General de Indias, Sevilla (AGI), some holdings in microfilm at a few universities. Example: Guadalupe 284. "Plan que manifesta el numero de Vassallos ..." is the reference for the 1783 census for Sonora, which showed 46,077 people. This census was prepared by Caballero Teodoro de Croix and included Alta Fimerna.

Archivo Ayuntamiento de Ciudad Juárez (JA), microfilm copies at the University of Texas at El Paso, and possibly at other universities in New Mexico and Texas.

Bancroft Library, Univ. of California, Berkeley, CA, has microfilm holdings from the Archive General de la Nación (AGN); the Felipe de Neve Correspondence and Papers, 1781-82; California Mission Statistics, 1769-1934 (includes presidios and pueblos); the Archives of California; and the Vallejo Documents.

Chapman, Charles E. Catalogue of Materials in the Archivo General de Indias for the History of the Pacific Coast and the American Southwest, Berkeley, CA, University of California, 1919. These Archives from AGI in Seville, Spain, include documents on the Presidios of Tubac, Tucson, Fronteras, Terrenate, Janos, and Horcasitas, and on the Pima, Apache, and Yuma Indians.

Church Records for individuals can usually be obtained from the church attended. Catholic Church records include baptisms, marriages, confirmations, and deaths (burials). Other churches also kept some records. A few of these church records have been microfilmed by the LDS.

DRSW# "Documentary Relations of the Southwest," microfilm holdings of the University of Arizona, Tucson, from various archives in the U. S., Mexico, and Spain. We were unable to study the following records in detail, but we believe they would be very helpful for anyone who believes they have an ancestor in military service. They are for various presidios, flying company, and militia units of the Provincias Internas, Nuevo Santander, and Nuevo León, and are grouped by area of service:

- 041-03003 includes Military Rolls for Nuevo Santander for Mar-Jun 1779.
- 041-02988 includes Monthly Rolls of Officers and Soldiers of Company Volante de Santander for Jun-Sep 1779.
- 041-03168 includes 1780 Lists for Company Volante de Nuevo Santander.
- 041-03163 includes Lists and Extracts for the Company Volante de Santander for Jul 1780-Jan 1781.
- 041-03046 includes Roll for Presidio de Monterrey and Lampazos for Nov 1781 - Feb 1782.
- 041-03044, 3045, 3048, Rolls for Monterrey and Punta de Lampazos for April 1782.
- 041-03045 includes Military Rolls and Payrolls for Jan - May, 1782.
- 041-06647 includes Roll for Monterrey and Punta de Lampazos, 1782.
- 041-03048 includes Rolls for Monterrey and Punta de Lampazos, 1782.
- 041-03049 includes Rosters for Presidio of Monterrey and for Punta de Lampazos, 1782-83.
- 041-03050 includes Rolls for Jan- Mar, 1783, for Monterrey and Punta de Lampazos.
- 041-03051, Roll for Monterrey and Punta de Lampazos, 1783.
- 041-03052 includes Rolls for Monterrey, Punta de Lampazos, and San Juan Bautista (garrison) for 1783.
- 041-03053 includes Rolls for Punta de Lampazos, 1783.
- 041-03565 includes Roster for Monterrey Presidio, early 1783.
- 100-1848 includes Credits/Debits of Officers/Soldiers of Janos Presidio, 1778-Dec 1779.
- 100-01790, 01791, includes Roster of the 1st Comp, 2d Squadron of San Carlos, 1779-1784.
- 100-01775 includes Roster for 1st Comp, 2d Squadron of San Carlos, 1779-1783. (This also contains references to the 3rd Comp, 2d Squadron, and to the 1st Comp, 7th Squadron. As there were only two known squadrons, the 7th is likely a misreading of the 1st.)
- 100-01796 includes Muster Roll for 3rd Comp, 2d Squadron of San Carlos, 1779-1784.
041-04814 includes Primera Compañía de Fusileros del Batalón Provincial de San Blas, 1783.

Guide to Film 811 Parish Archives of Sonora and Sinaloa (27 rolls), Tucson, Microforms Section, University of Arizona Library, 1976. (This film may be available from the Photocopy Service, Library, University of Arizona, Tucson, AZ 85721.) The 1801 census of Pimería Alta is on Roll 3.

Huntington Library and Art Gallery of San Marino, CA, has the Kino papers, the José de Gálvez manuscripts covering the period 1763-1794, the California File, 1731-1940, the Lower California-Church History Collection; and the William G. Ritch Papers dealing with NM from 1539-1940.

Local Family History Centers of the Church of Latter Day Saints (LDS). The Library in Salt Lake City has pertinent books are still under copyright which it cannot film; but it also has church records and other materials available on microform through any local Family History Center. The entire library holdings by title and subject matter can also be reviewed on the internet or at any Family History Center by computer. (The traditional author/title catalog is on microfiche.) Each local Center is different, but all have access to the holdings at Salt Lake City. These holdings probably contain more Hispanic historical and genealogical materials than any library outside of Mexico and Spain. Cottler, Susan M. was lead editor for Preliminary Survey of the Mexican Collection at the Genealogical Society of Utah. Salt Lake City, UT: University of Utah Press, 1978, supplement, 1779. There have been many additions since that time.

Libraries, Local. City, county, and state libraries, at their branches, have computer files of what Hispanic history and genealogy is available. If the book you need is not available at your local branch, you can order it from other branches or through interlibrary (ILL) loan at the Reference Sections of most public libraries.

Libraries, College and University. Basic references for teaching and researching Hispanic history are held in book or microfilm form in most community college and university libraries. For example, in CA the volumes dealing with the work of Hubert Howe Bancroft on the border states and Mexico are at Saddleback College Library (SCL) in Mission Viejo, at California State University, Long Beach, and at California State University, Fullerton. College libraries do not hold genealogical collections, per se, but they may have local histories which have genealogical content. Díaz, Albert J. has published Manuscripts and Records in the University of New Mexico Library, Albuquerque, NM: University of New Mexico Library, 1957

Radding de Murrieta, Cynthia, and María Lourdes Torres Chivos. Catálogo del Archivo Histórico del Estado Sonora, Hermosillo, 1974-75. These Sonoran Archives may include information on the Yuma operations, 1780-1783.

Vital Records (birth, death, and marriage) for individuals in the U.S. after 1915 are available at state offices or at the county seat of the county where the individual lived. Other types of records in the county seat go back to the early times of Spanish rule. Records for most Mexican parishes are intact and many have been copied by the LDS.

Bowman, J. N., and Robert F. Heizer. _Anza and the Northwest Frontier of New Spain_. Southwest Museum Papers, Number Twenty, Southwest Museum, Highland Park, Los Angeles, 90042, 1967. This is a very selective study of the life of Anza, taking care to give him credit for what he did and outlining what he did not do. It shows the relationship of Spanish Minister of the Interior José Galvez to King Carlos III and to the strategy of Spain during the Revolutionary War Period, though that was not the intent of the study.

Brinkenhoff, Sidney B. and Faulk, Odie B. _Lancers for the King: A Study of the Frontier Military System of Northern New Spain_. Arizona Pioneers Historical Society, Phoenix, AZ, 1965. This study focuses on the Royal Regulations of 1772 for the Presidios of the Frontier of New Spain. These regulations stayed in effect, and were reissued without change in 1834 by the Mexican Government. It described how the presidios were to be built, governed, personnel paid, ranks to be held, armament, responsibilities for each rank, how paymasters were selected, how Indians were to be treated, etc.

Burrus, Ernest J. "Rivera y Moncada, Explorer and Military Commander of Both Californias, in the Light of His Diary and Other Contemporary Documents," _Hispanic American Historical Review_, 50 (Nov 1970):682-92. Burrus stated that Rivera y Moncado mentioned many other colonists rather than those known to have come to the Californias; however, this would be normal in a recruitment and selection process. Actually, the large numbers of people mentioned in the records on Rivera's Expedition include all those in Mexico who made arrangements for support, those who actually sold livestock and provisions for the Expedition, and others who supported the Expedition while it was on its way. People on Rivera's lists who actually got to California are very well recorded, but the many people who had some part of the Expedition are not. Some are identified for the first time in the foregoing listing of Patriots and Near Patriots.

Forbes, Jack D. Warriors of the Colorado: The Yumas of the Quechan Nation and their Neighbors. Norman, University of Oklahoma Press, 1965. Pages 188-205 describe the Yumas at the time of their massacre of the Rivers & Moncada colonists, soldiers, and priests, then their destruction of the two mission/settlements on the Colorado/Gila Rivers. Forbes stated that the Spanish first believed 105 persons had been killed, but later found that many had been captured. At least 55 were killed, and the fates of some remain unknown. Several others were killed in later operations against the Yumas. The Yumas were not finally conquered until campaigns by the Americans in 1851/52.

It is probable the soldiers with him helped establish the Presidio of Santa Barbara, and Fages went on to Monterey to become Governor of California.
